Resilient responses amidst turmoil

BY HARVEY WINJE

Turmoil has dominated national and international affairs and news beginning 2016.

Local affairs and news also admit turmoil of unrest, inequities, violence, and challenges ahead.

Review of 2015 and view of 2016 show resilient responses.

New Food and Beverage Choices Coming to Abbott Northwestern Hospital

BY ALISON PENCE, DIRECTOR OF COMMUNITY ENGAGEMENT - WEST METRO, ALLINA HEALTH

On December 1st, Abbott Northwestern Hospital and Allina Health announced that they were putting into action a new food and beverage policy starting in 2016. These changes will include removing sugary drinks and deepfat fried foods from all cafeterias, vending machines and gift shops. As part of this change, the hospital has terminated the lease with the McDonald's that has been located inside the hospital for many years. The McDonald's will close by the end of May.

The decision to create a policy such as this one and to remove the McDonald's restaurant was not one that was made easily or quickly. For many years, both Allina Health and Abbott Northwestern Hospital have been looking at the role that lifestyle choices make in the health of our patients, their families, our staff and community members.

We know that this change will have an impact on the options available in our buildings, however as our President and CEO, Dr. Penny Wheeler has said "As an organization focused on health, it is our responsibility to model and encourage healthy choices." The new policy does not prevent employees and visitors from bringing their own food and beverages into the building, it just means that we will focus on selling healthier options to make it easier to choose healthy. Since the announcement, we have heard from a majority of our employees and visitors that they welcome the coming changes.

Changes to the cafeteria, gift shop and vending choices are currently underway to reflect our new focus. In early 2016, Abbott Northwestern will begin the planning process for what options will be available in the space currently leased by the McDonalds. The planning process will take place over many months and will include opportunities for patients, visitors and staff to weigh in on the future of the space. Watch for future editions of The Alley where we will share more details about the planning process for the new

Park Board considers parks referendum

BY MPRB STAFF, [ABRIDGED BY ED.]

After a year of condition and service level public meetings of 157 City neighborhood parks, MBRB Supt. Jayne Miller gave Closing the Gap: Investing in Neighborhood Parks initiative recommendations to commissioners.

Miller shared ballot language for a Nov. 2016 referendum, an implementation plan, and elements of an agreement with the Mpls. City Council.

The MPRB is expected to act on the proposals Jan 20th. Miller will give the 2018-2022 Initiative specifics in April.

See Supt's. presentation www.minneapolisparks. org/closingthegap.

Background

Closing the Gap is an initiative of the Supt. and Commissioners after they gave information Mpls. residents and partners about the condition and service levels; including impacts of system age and deferred maintenance on parks.

The Initiative gathered information from residents

The Dream is Coming True!

BY DENNY BENNETT

When I woke up on January 1st, and reflected on 2015, I smiled, as I re-assured myself, that, no, it wasn't just a dream, it really is happening!

As I write this, the city's finest construction companies are submitting their bids to build the new Phillips Aquatics Center! Master plans have been drawn up and ratified, and construction will begin in May!

Ventura Village generously voted to provide an additional $80,000 in funding through the City to the Minneapolis Park & Recreation Board earmarked specifically toward the addition of a small 3rd warm-water, therapy pool. To distinguish this from the 4-lane, 25 yard, warm water pool already in the plans, I'll describe (my words) the 3rd pool as a "hot-tube" or "whirlpool spa". A very nice addition indeed! Of course, there is the necessary bureaucracy before this is a "done deal."

The Minneapolis Parks Foundation recognized Minneapolis Swims for our efforts in bringing together the entities for the pool, and offered us one Minneapolis bakers: John Christian Ferman with his wife, Josephine, eldest daughter, and youngest son. John descended from a long line of Norwegian seafarers stretching back to the 17th Century. He was born the 24th of November 1856 in Kragerø, Norway and christened Johan Christian Winther Fermann. Johan was the seventh of a brood of eight. John was 8 when his father, Peter Biørn Fermann, was lost at sea. John's eldest brother, Niels Paulsen Fermann, was lost at sea ten years later when John was 18 in John also baked at 231 Cedar in 1913 and 2106 4th Avenue in 1914 and returned to 320 Cedar for 1915. John passed away October 18, 1917.

nation: Apparently, at time of his immigration to the USA, Johan Fermann omitted the "a" of Johan and the second "n' in Fermann. As grandson John says, "my dad, who was an expert at condensing a 15-word sentence into 2 words once said, 'new country, new name.'"

A first town-like settlement in Norway 1,000 AD was originally called Oslo. King Haakon V (1299-1319) built the Akershus Fortress. From 1536 Norway was in a union with Denmark. After a dramatic fire, in 1624, King Christian IV rebuilt the town below the Fortress area and he changed its name to Christiania. As a consequence of the Napoleonic Wars, Denmark in 1814 had to cede the territory of Norway to the Swedish king, Karl Johan. Norway adopted its own constitution that year on 17 May 1814 and Christiana became the official capital of Norway. From 1877 the name was spelled Kristiania, and in 1925 it was changed back to the original Oslo.

The Phoenix Rises Again!

BY PATRICK CABELLO HANSEL

What do we look for when the sunset sky/stirs up the crows? John Richard

The 2nd issue of "The Phoenix of Phillips", our neighborhood's own literary magazine, will be an insert in the February issue of The Alley. But you can get a preview copy and hear some of the writers at its Coming-Out-Party, Thursday, January 28 at 7 pm at the Midtown Global Market. Writers young and old will read their work; there will be live music and activities for children, as well as group poem and photography activities.

The Phoenix of Phillips is a part of the Semilla Center for Healing and the Arts of St. Paul's Lutheran Church at 2742 15th Ave S. Over the past nine years, Semilla (seed in Spanish) has taught over 2000 people mosaics, murals, photography, drama, creative writing and other art forms. Professional artists, working with community residents, have installed 22 murals and over 50 other public art place holders. In 2016, partners will include Andersen United School (Go Phoenixes!), Roosevelt High School, St. Paul's Home (low income senior housing) and the Multiple Sclerosis Achievement Center.

At the January opening, you will also be able to see the youth photography project of St. Paul's Semilla Center. Youth photographers from ages 7 to 18 have

Free Food and Clothes In Cedar Field Park

They came on a pre-Christmas Saturday to Cedar Field Park. They hung cloths on the baseball backstop – piled more clothes and boxes of shoes under them. They set up tables and a generator and emptied cans of soup in heated crockpots. For the rest of the day, they served hot soup to the people of East Phillips. Neighbors and passersby stopped to talk, eat and pick out what they needed: a pair of pants, a warm shirt, shoes or jacket.

Everyone enjoyed the hot soup and winter cloths and some wondered who these generous people were who chose to remain anonymous behind their Guy Fawkes masks.

The Franklin Learning Center

Franklin Learning Center (FLC) provides adults with resources to educate themselves. Learners, instructors and trained volunteers work collaboratively, trusting each other's wisdom and experience. In partnership with other local organizations, we create a vibrant, cross-cultural learning community. At FLC, people are empowered with the knowledge they need to fulfill their professional, family and community

FLC is an adult education program of Hennepin County Library. It is located in the historic Franklin Library in the Phillips Community of Minneapolis.

FLC provides free, flexible instruction tailored to individual learner's needs. Working one-to-one and in small groups with staff and volunteer tutors, learners study reading, writing, math, social studies and science.

Learners also practice speaking and listening, gain computer literacy, and prepare for the GED and U.S. citizenship tests. Every learner is encouraged to get a library card, and FLC staff work closely with other library staff to ensure our learners and volunteers make a good connection with the library and the Phillips Technology Center, also at Franklin Library.

People

FLC has served the Phillips Community for 26 years, evolving with Franklin Library and the Community. The library has always strived to meet the literacy needs of new Americans: when it opened in 1914, one-third of its collection was in foreign languages - primarily Norwegian, Swedish and Yiddish.

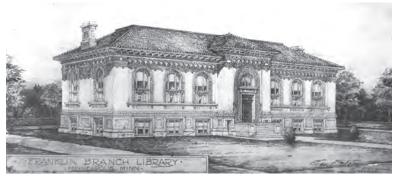

When FLC opened in 1988 with funding from a federal grant, staff, volunteers and interns worked mainly with U.S.-born adults preparing for the GED. Most learners were American Indian, African-American or Caucasian, and 58 percent were men.

Today, the greatest demand at FLC is for English language learning. In 2014, learners represented 24 nations and ranged in age from teens to seniors. 86 percent of learners were from Africa (78 percent from Somalia) and 4 percent of learners were Latino; 8 percent of learners were U.S.-born. About 70 percent of learners were FLC welcomes volunteers and interns from a wide variety of backgrounds. They range in age from 18 to 90. Volunteers are community members, former FLC students and service learners from local colleges.

The program has grown from 37 volunteers and interns in 1988 to 159 volunteers and interns in 2014.

Community

FLC has developed strong partnerships with the University of Minnesota; Augsburg College; Metropolitan State University and Minneapolis Community and Technical College (Project SHINE); St. Catherine University and City of Lakes AmeriCorps. The University of Minnesota recognized our work with University students, faculty and staff, honoring FLC with an Outstanding Partners in Community Engagement award in 2006.

The Minnesota Literacy Council helps FLC recruit and train volunteers. Friends of the Hennepin County Library provide funding for the FLC program.

We connect adult learners with resources in the community. In 2014, we welcomed Emerge, Hennepin County Child and Teen Checkups, Project for Pride in Living, Second Harvest Heartland, University of Minnesota Tax Clinic and Waite House.

FLC by the numbers in 2014: 515 learners studied 20,244 hours 159 volunteers and interns tutored 7,708 hours. 2 learners passed GED subject tests. 64 learners became citizens. FLC is one of the top 25 most-referred adult education programs in the state.

Learning English.

Amina

My name is Amina Ahmed. I am a student in the Franklin Learning Center. I learn math and English reading and writing. When I came in the library, I didn't speak English or read or write. Now I can speak English well, and read and write well. I like Franklin library center because of the improvement to my English reading and writing. Thank you tutors and staff.

My Cousin Bisharo

My cousin, Ahmed, came to the United States in 2005. He is a very hard worker, but he didn't know the United States. He worked for six months in a factory. The factory made meat. My cousin came to work one day and his boss sent him to do the washing. While he was washing my cousin burned his hand. After that he called us. He talked to his uncle and he said, "If I knew American life I would not have come. I quit my job now.

FLC Student Ivan

I am taking driver's lessons, will you help me?" His uncle laughed at him and said, "My nephew, do you remember when you said to me to send money? I said to you I didn't have money. You got mad at me. You didn't believe me, but you believe me today." My cousin said, "Yes, that is true my uncle. Sorry about that. I didn't believe that someone in America didn't have money. I have more experience now." My uncle said, "Come back to me and I will help you, if Allah accepts me. You will feel better." After six months my cousin got a driver's license and he became a truck driver. Now he has money and is a businessman.

Franklin Ave.

Franklin Ave on snowy morning.

Today in early morning I was coming back from work and was It was snowing so hard that I could hardly see the road. After I parked my car at home and got out, I froze in amazement how beautiful it was outside. Snow covered roads, and parked cars. Tree branches were covered with white and reflection from the lights made them bright and shiny. Streets empty of people and moving cars were quiet and peaceful. Light snow was covering me and everything around me, making me forget my hard day work. Then I realized how much I miss this amazing time of year.

Feeling Proud Seid

One time when I felt proud of myself was when I recommended good education to my sister. She didn't like school and learning from books. only cooked and stayed home. I encouraged her to like education. When I gave her the recommendation, she told me, "I am young, I have time to learn." Finally, when she was 17 years old, she took my recommendation and she came back to school. She succeeded at her education and I was happy.

When I was Young Nimco

My friend and I went to the beach. Usually we went after lunch, but one day we went before lunch. We saw the big waves go back. My friend said, "Let's go and see that ship, how it looks inside. I heard it has beautiful places and special food." I said okay. The water was below our When we reached the middle of distance, we saw a big wave which was about ten feet high. My friend said, "Today is our last day in the world!" She didn't know how to swim. I knew how. I said, "Grab my legs." She refused and grabbed my neck. Both of us were in a serious condition. Fortunately, an old man saw us and helped us escape from our trouble.

In my first house in Brideport, Connecticut, I saw both cockroaches and mice. I did not believe I was in America. I came to Minneapolis in 2001. I am learning English. I like Franklin Learning Center. The staff are friendly, helpful, and encouraging. I live in a nice, clean building. No cockroaches or mice. I believe I live in America. Thank you everyone.

The Two People are Puppets

I saw some puppets on the way to the learning center on Saturday. They were characters on the street near Holiday gas station. One was green and the other one was pink. The green one reminded me of John Deere. I want to leave class and go watch the puppets.

The Big Bang and Bernie

A shop called Mayday Café exists not far from the center of the universe. Various political types are found there, including some radicals.

All are welcome. December 17, 2015...

A friend was anxious over a forthcoming exam on the subject of the Big Bang Theory, hence an invite to a pastry with coffee. I offered that the totality of matter had not been, for the first half of eternity (!) confined to one small spherical spec, after which, having changed its mind (?) it went BOOM.

Indeed, the theory in question presents a splendid example of the 'narrow empiricism' associated with bourgeois science. Ask them what went on before the bang. Their answer: "Duh...we don't know." Yet, based on their observations of the "known universe," they have propagated a wildly irresponsible conclusion with cosmic ramifications.

So, what actually is going on here?

Let us concede that some 13.8 billion years ago, a very big explosion did occur. However, not even for God's sake did this event originate from a 'static singularity.' No...and lucky for us the 'eternally expanding universe' is not happening either. True, our black holes might be leaking a bit, but trust me, those matter suckers will soon enough convene themselves to commence the next contraction phase...moving inexorably to that nanosecond of maximum compression, and then again BANG, ad infinitum.

Friends and neighbors, the universe oscillates within the cosmos. As we come to recognize change as the eternal constant, we become consistent with 'dialectical-materialism,' i.e., the philosophy elaborated by Marx, Engles, and Lenin.

"There can be no straight and pure path to socialism," said Lenin. So, all things considered, at this time, I suggest we walk with Bernie Sanders. Frankly, the next Big Bang will take a while to

Disparities between White Supremacists, Somali-Americans today, and Dakota people 153 years ago

BY FRANK ERICKSON

How can White Supremacists who actually tried to kill people, who actually put bullets into five Black men of Black Lives Matter, not be charged with attempted murder...yet five Somali-American men are fighting charges of attempted murder and they never shot anyone; they tried to plan a terrorist attack where they would try to kill people—they only tried to go to Syria to fight for ISIL.

How can White Supremacists who were part of the group who tried to kill people, get to go home after being questioned by the police, because they were not "at the scene of the crime" yet the five Somali-American men were not at any scene of a terrorist act, but they do not get to go home. They may face decades in prison.

How can Whites who tried to kill people get lesser charges than Blacks who didn't try to kill anyone, but only tried to join a terrorist group?

How can Whites who are actually in a terrorist group and doing terrorist things, like trying to murder people, be in less trouble than blacks who only tried to join a terrorist group?

And for those being critical of Syrian men fleeing Syria and not defined Dakota men fleeing this area and not fighting the invading Whites? Would they see them the fighting ISIL, how would they have same as they see the fleeing Syrian men—that they did not stand up and fight the invading evil, doing what is best for the world?

BY STEVE SANDBERG, FOR THE COMMITTEE

The building at 2019 East Lake Street is like a "cat with nine lives;" that is, flexible, resilient, and able to land on its feet regardless of fall height.

Thanks to all of you who have shown interest in the history of the Burma Shave building. Since the December issue of The Alley Newspaper's first Burma-Shave Building article, we have registered with the Preservation Alliance of Minnesota, and they will help us do a historic survey. We have learned through older neighborhood residents including memories of a resident who passed away last year at age 102, that the building was originally the historic Vine Congregational Church. It was after that, among other things, a meeting place for a Norwegian chapter of the International Order of Good Templar, and Winget Manufacturing, which made bonnets and ladies furnishings.

On December 10th the Board of Corcoran Neighborhood Organization voted to request of the MPS that a historic survey be done, but as of yet we have no confirmation as to whether that has been communicated. We are creating a Burma Shave History/ Historic Vine Church FaceBook page which we encourage you to check out and contribute any historical information that you may have. Thanks! For the Committee.

BACKYARD INITIATIVE BACK PAGE

What is the purpose of the BYI Communications CHAT?

"This CHAT works to lessen and ultimately eliminate the divide between people who have information and those who do not so that everyone has the opportunity to be engaged in a healthy community."

What is the role of the Communications CHAT as part of the BYI?

The BYI Communications CHAT is a resource to the BYI in two important, general ways

- 1. Internal to BYI: Assists in CHAT teams learning about the activities of other CHAT teams and to discover ways to lend expertise to each other. This internal communication helps to strengthen the relationships between individuals within the BYI and thereby strengthens the entire Backyard Initiative.
- 2. External to the BYI: We also support the CHAT teams communicating in their own words and ideas to the 42,000 residents and 15,000 households in the Backyard area. The Communications CHAT continues to employ methods of conveying what the Backyard Initiative is, its history, its governance structure, and the knowledge it is producing.

A few examples of these internal and external strategies include: • Beginning in April 2013, through our partnership with Alley Communications, we featured a specific CHAT team or

The BYI info tent at the Hue-MAN Festival, July 2015

This opportunity provides key learning in how to communicate with other community-based media, build on the assets of the CHAT, and communicate in a CHAT's own words rather than

- being represented by others.
- We helped to coordinate a show featuring 3 BYI CHATs on the Truth To Tell KFAI radio show
- The Communications CHAT represents the BYI at neighbor-

- hood events such as: Midtown Phillips Festival, Midtown Global Market Music Festival and Allina Volunteer Fair.
- · BYI Back Pages and the Definition of Health have been turned into posters so that CHAT teams can communicate about their BYI work at community and cultural events more specific to the individual CHAT teams. These posters and/or special features are, in turn, used to promote activities of the BYI and the CHAT. The 4-page special gardening insert in September of 2015 is an example of this feature.
- Photo documentation has been done at many events to help BYI participants communicate in other ways than the written
- · An inventory of available meeting space in the BYI area is being compiled for publication in early 2016

Who is part of the Communications CHAT and how is Alley Communications involved?

Two people serve as lead contact people for the Communications CHAT: Susan Gust and Harvey M. Winje. Both of these individuals have been involved with the Backyard Initiative since 2008. As a trusted community-led media source, The Alley Newspaper was viewed as a means to help to communicate the principles, activities and the comprehensive work of the Backyard Initiative. Alley Communications, the publisher of The Alley Newspaper, holds very similar values as those of the Backyard Initiative-----valuing the knowledge, expertise, assets and skills which are collectively held within the Community. By raising up this knowledge in our own voices, we have every possibility of creating a healthier community.

For more information about the BYI Communications CHAT, please contact Susan Gust, 612-414-6623 or susananngust@gmail.com.

Back Yard Initiative Back Page

The BYI Back Page is produced each month as a collaborative venture between the BYI Communications CHAT & Alley Communications, Inc., publisher of The Alley Newspaper. The Communications CHAT works with BYI CHAT (Community Health Action Teams) each month as a "resource CHAT" - helping to get the news and activities of the BYI out to the broader community.

On December 16, 2015, Alley Communications hosted an event in our community's only castle! It was built by the Turnblad family near the turn of the 20th century. The Turnblad's were modest Swedish immigrants who greatly increased their wealth by becoming publisher's of what eventually became the largest Swedish language newspaper outside of Sweden. Today, the American Swedish Institute is a gathering place for all people to share experiences around themes of culture, migration, the environment and the arts, informed by enduring links to Sweden.

The Alley Newspaper hosted this event to celebrate its 40th vear of publication. For this event, The Alley Newspaper launched an exhibit called: The Alley Newspaper Is...... There are many pieces to what is part of the vibrancy and purpose of The Alley Newspaper and one of those elements is promoting community health. However, this connection to community health resides in the important relationship between The Alley Newspaper, the BYI Communications CHAT and ultimately, the Backyard Initiative whose work is to increase the health of the community through social connection and social cohesion in order to promote health empowerment and advocacy.

The Backyard Initiative (BYI) is a partnership between the Community, the Cultural Wellness Center and Allina Health. The goal of this partnership is to improve the health of the 40,000-plus residents living in the "backyard" comprised by the neighborhoods of Powderhorn Park, East Phillips, Midtown Phillips, West Phillips, Ventura Village, Central, and Corcoran. (see map in upper right hand corner for area boundaries). There are 10 Community Health Action Teams(CHATS) focused on improving the health through a variety of cultural and community-connecting activities. For more information, call or visit the Backyard Initiative Information Center at the south entrance of the Midtown Global Market, 920 East Lake Street, 612.353.6211.
