NEWS & VIEWS OF PHILLIPS SINCE 1976
NOVEMBER 2015 • VOLUME 40, NUMBER 11

STORIES

"History is not the past. It is the stories we tell about the past. How we tell these stories - triumphantly or self-critically, dialectally, or metaphysically; has a lot to do with whether we cut short or advance our evolution as human beings."

Grace Lee Boggs, June 27, 1915–October 5, 2015 American author, social activist, philosopher and feminist.

"History, despite its wrenching pain, cannot be unlived, but if faced with courage, need not be lived again."

Maya Angelou, April 4, 1928 – May 28, 2014 American author, poet, and civil rights activist

"Great dancers are not great because of their technique; they are great because of their passion."

Martha Graham, May 11, 1894 – April 1, 1991, American modern dancer and choreographer compared with Picasso on visual arts, Stravinsky on music, & Frank Lloyd Wright on architecture. [See: "Spirit of Phillips" 'Passion of Great Souls!' Cartoon by Dave Moore pg. 7]

"Stories matter. Many stories matter. Stories have been used to dispossess and to malign, but stories can also be used to empower and to humanize. Stories can break the dignity of a people, but stories can also repair that broken dignity. When we reject the single story, when we realize that there is never a single story about any place, we regain a kind of paradise."

"We urgently need to bring to our communities the limitless capacity to love, serve, and create for and with each other. We urgently need to bring the neighbor back into our hoods, not only in our inner cities but also in our suburbs, our gated communities, on Main Street and Wall Street, and on Ivy League campuses."

"I've always felt that it is impossible to engage properly with a place or a person without engaging with all of the stories of that place and that person.

The consequence of the single story is this: It robs people of dignity. It makes our recognition of our equal humanity difficult. It emphasizes how we are different rather than how we are similar."

Until 2015 graves were unmarked for 140 years along with 2,280 others in “Potter’s Field”

Great niece and husband honor relatives, who died in childhood, with words, flowers, and stone markers

October 15th was one of those perfect days in the Cemetery. The weather was glorious and the trees were at their most colorful. It was perfect in another way, as well. Linda Leraas Ray and her husband, Steve Ray, had markers placed on the graves of two children who died in the 1870s.

It took some effort to find those children since the Cemetery’s records were not accurate. The little girl’s last name was spelled Luirass instead of Leraas, and the little boy effectively had no last name at all—his last name appeared as Andreas which was his middle name. Linda and Steve were certain that the children were buried in Minneapolis Pioneers and Soldiers Cemetery and after a little sorting and re-sorting of our spreadsheet, we found them.

The children, Annie Mathilda Leraas and her brother Lars Andreas were the children of Linda’s great-grandparents, Ole Johnneson and Martha Larsdatter. Ole and Martha didn’t live in Minneapolis long—only from 1874 to 1878 but during those four years they lost two of their children. Lars died on July 23, 1874, from dysentery; Annie died the following year, on November 17, 1875, from diphtheria. Lars was eleven months old when he died; Annie was four.

Annie and Lars were buried in the Cemetery’s Potters Field along with approximately 2,300 other people. There are 92 people in that section of the Cemetery who were buried in 1874, the year that Lars died. Of those, sixty-one were infants and children under the age of ten. In 1875, the year that Annie died, there were 114 burials, 78 of them infants and children under the age of ten.

On her facebook page, Linda wrote: “I am humbled by the sacrifices my ancestors made and the many hardships they endured.” And her family’s hardships did not end with the loss of Annie and Lars. Over the years, Ole and Martha had 13 children, only six of whom lived to adulthood. The other children who died are buried with their parents in Grant County, Minnesota.

Of the 2,300 burials, only 20 graves had markers. That changed on October 16, 2015. Now there are 22.

In addition to the markers, Linda and Steve placed flowers on the children’s graves. Linda wrote:

“Anna and Lars, I don’t know if flowers were ever placed on your little graves before. These are only a few humble flowers from my garden, but placed with all my love.” Linda Leraas Ray, your great niece

Special thanks to Linda and Steve for sharing their story with us and for remembering two children who might otherwise have been forgotten.

Cemetery CLOSED for Winter
The cemetery closed for the season on October 15th and will reopen on April 15, 2016. It will, however, be open on November 11th in honor of Veterans Day.

Linda Leraas Ray, Sue Hunter Weir, Mike Barth (Cemetery Caretaker), and Steve Ray. Linda and her husband, Steve, had markers placed on the graves of two children who died in the 1870s.

Schematic design of Phillips Community Center pool renovation approved by MPRB

Numerous public and private partners contribute toward $5.4 million upgrade

On October 21, 2015, the Minneapolis Park and Recreation Board (MPRB) of Commissioners approved the schematic design of renovations planned for the Phillips Community Center Aquatics Facility.

The state of Minnesota, Hennepin County Youth Sports Program, MPRB, Minneapolis Public Schools (MPS) and local non-profit Minneapolis Swims all contributed funding to reimagine and rebuild this crucial community asset.

“It was inspiring to see so many people step up and share their ideas, opinions and passion supporting the pool’s revival,” said MPRB Superintendent Jayne Miller.

“The Phillips pool will be the only public indoor pool in Minneapolis offering year-round swimming instruction when it reopens,” added MPRB District 3 Commissioner Scott Vreeland. “Everyone should learn to swim, and this will be a great place for children, families and elders to play, exercise and learn about water activities.

The existing six-lane indoor pool, which opened in 1973 and closed in 2008, will be renovated and the second-floor spectator seating refurbished. New elements slated for the aquatics facility include a four-lane teaching pool, two locker/changing rooms, lobby, reception, staff office, life-guard room, public restrooms and realigned entryway.

An extensive community engagement process guided the development of both the concept design (approved in April) and schematic design. In the event supplementary funding becomes available, a non-appointed Community Advisory Committee prioritized nine additional desired improvements at Phillips Community Center.

The project is on schedule to publicly bid for construction February 2016. Construction is anticipated to start May 2016 and take one year to finish.

MPRB is working with the community and MPS to define how the pool is programmed and operated when it reopens.

Minneapolis Public Schools: $1,750,000
MPRB: $706,000

Meet Doña Rosa, Ventura Village's Very Special Farming Assistant!

Doña Rosa came to Minneapolis five years ago from the Cañares Province in Equador, close to the city of Cuenca. She met Christina Elias, saying she was sad and embarrassed for missing her country and came to the Good Juju Garden with a neighbor she first met when she arrived. Doña felt most comfortable in the garden because from the age of 5, she would walk behind the animals that would plow, being with her grandmother. Her entire education comes from farming and the land. She went to school when she was 12 and spent only one year, feeling that she'd left her mother with too much responsibility to manage the farm and other children. So she went back to farming. We met five years and she helped me as a volunteer at the Good Juju. Because I'd been hired at Mashkiikii Gitigan Farm, I was unable to do both, so I helped Doña Rosa plant the Good Juju at the top of the season and she kept the whole thing alive. Her reward was that she was able to bring home all that good food and a place to spend her time. In the first year of Mashkiikii, we brought in 47 tons of soil to create the farm and the second year, we wrote curriculum for the formalized education. At the end of the second year, I proposed that we bring in the Good Juju garden which tripled our growing space! With the support of Ventura Village through a business plan we wrote, we were able to layer in the Karma Markets, the Four Sisters Market [East Franklin & Bloomington Avenue], and we were able to hire Doña Rosa. She had to compete for that position and with the help of Waite House staff support and successfully interviewed for the job. (Two others had competed for the staff position). She was amazing! Doña Rosa got that position based on of experience and her presentation of herself! She had proven herself with all of that free labor, but it was how she inter-acted with the Waite House and its people that really demonstrates the best this community has to offer in terms of support. I wanted somebody from the Ventura Village community who could constantly check on the gardens and the hens, which she is able to do. She also sees how much food is "walked out" each week! She did not need any "training" and had the flexibility to work when needed. She could tell me what she thinks needs done, so I have learned as much from her as she has learned from me. People have no idea how fortunate we are to have an indigenous woman as our farmer in this part of the country because we didn't cross the borders,—the borders crossed us!

— Christina Elias, as told to Robert Albee

Note: The Good Juju Garden is at 14th Avenue & 22nd Street; the Mashkiikii Garden Farm is at 13th Avenue & 24th Street in Downtown Ventura Village.

"People have no idea how fortunate we are to have an indigenous woman as our farmer in this part of the country because we didn't cross the borders — the borders crossed us!"

Mashkiikii Gitigan's Harvest Party Brought Neighbors Together to Work and Feast!

Wells Fargo Honors Bill Kingsbury with its Volunteer Service Award

Mashkiikii Gitigan Farm Thanks Ventura Village for its Support

Farmer Christina Elias, Bill Kingsbury and Rep. Karen Clark each took turns thanking Ventura Village neighborhood for its ongoing support for the 24th Street Mashkiikii Gitigan Farm and the bounty in both food and in community-building that this project has been able to bring to the Phillips Community.

Swept Away!

Thanks to all of the great volunteers who have turned out this year and in previous years to make Clean Sweep a very special part of our community calendar. Thanks to those who gather each summer and begin the planning and execution of the event. Special thanks to Welna Hardware, Lutheran Social Services and the Minneapolis Park & Recreational Board for hosting our kick-offs and social gatherings afterwards. Thanks to the City of Minneapolis for providing the trucks for our Clean Sweep debris!

Ventura Village Board Member Bill Kingsbury recently received a Volunteer Service Award from Wells Fargo's Chairman and CEO John Stumpf in September, recognizing his service to the Ventura Village neighborhood. Bill was one of about 15 people locally who received the award this year. After receiving the award from Mr. Stumpf, Kingsbury handed him a bottle of honey from Ventura Village bee hive, located on a third story porch at his house. Mr. Stumpf, who grew up on a farm in Piers, Minnesota, later noted that his parents had kept bees. Ventura Village Chair Thor Adam also attended the Community Support Breakfast with Bill, where the award was presented. The award also carries a $1,000 prize that will come to Ventura Village.

Women invited to sing in HOBt's whimsical, wistful "Between the Worlds"

This is a heartwarming experience and we would love to have more people from the neighborhood join us. We are happy to announce that In the Heart of the Beast Puppet & Mask Theater will present "Between the Worlds" in December 2015.

This joyous, whimsical, wistful, and powerful ode to the Longest Night is performed by a choir of 40 women and some puppeteer/movers. Might one of them be you? Performances are December 11-21. We rehearse three times a week throughout November to start learning music. As this beautiful autumn takes hold, it's nice to know that we will be together to sing in the beauty of the darkness ahead. Join us! If interested or for more info or for actual schedule call 612-721-2535.

The Great Transition

403 - 221 BC...
The newly developed cupola type furnace emerged like so many mushrooms upon the land. Masses were rallied to the stacks...all available iron was to be sacrificed between layers of glowing coke (i.e., coal). Such was the Warring States Period in Chinese history.
June 1979...

I would survive Smith Foundry’s last “cupola campaign.” After which, under an environmental mandate, the beast was put to sleep. A new electric furnace was to draw its power from a coal-fired plant some distance away. Actually, Mother Earth was seen rolling her eyes and shaking her head.

2015...
“When the Clean Power Plan is fully in place in 2030, carbon pollution from the power sector will be 32% below 2005 levels,” so says the EPA. (32%?!). Meanwhile, Xcel Energy has announced plans to cut carbon emissions, by 60%, mainly by switching from coal to natural gas.

Earth responds:
Hydraulic fracturing is the process of drilling, and high pressure fluid injection, to fracture shale rock and release the natural gas inside. Each fracturing takes 1-8 million gallons of water mixed with sand and approximately 40,000 gallons of chemicals (a “proprietary” mix of carcinogens and toxins). Moreover, the production and distribution of fractured gas releases “vast” amounts of CH4—an even more potent greenhouse gas than CO2. SOUND THE ALARM: Natural gas is not the solution.

Clearly, we must think beyond fossil fuels. A vast infrastructure for wind, solar, hydrogen, and yes, second generation nuclear must be created. This will, of course, require a huge energy investment. It follows that Earth must grant us more of her coal, and we must quickly learn to sequester the resulting CO2.

As for us industrial workers, we stand ready for THE GREAT TRANSITION.

Analysis Corcoran Neighborhood about to lose a “Pearl”

BY HARVEY WINJE, CONCEPTS BY STEVE SANDBERG

A cosmetic “shell” hides a “pearl” at 2019 E.Lake St. across from Pioneers and Soldiers Cemetery. It was the factory for Burma-Shave product and signage until it moved to Bryn-Mar Neighborhood.

The Mpls. School Dist. bought the property to build a Community Education building replacing one at E. Lake St. and Hiawatha sold to Hennepin County .

Corcoran Neighborhood and Lake St. businesses would do well to consider its reuse on a site rather than as landfill.

Perhaps this post and beam Burma-Shave building could invoke re-use sensibilities and be incorporated into a shelter structure for the new Midtown Farmer’s Market two blocks away or, as Phillip’s resident Steve Sandberg also recommends, moving it to the empty lot at East Lake Street and 17th Ave.

See www.startribune.com October 26, 2015, “It may be razed/Instead of saved/Say so long to/Burma Shave” by Steve Brandt.

Waste of resources is no surprise: the School District demolished Phillips Jr. High School because it “wasn’t needed”; but bought and renovated Mt. Sinai Hospital three blocks away, four years later! Neighbors had protested in favor of reuse as a community center and/or housing. Neighbors were victorious in saving the 1972 Pool and Gym addition. Sanford Middle School---still being used and currently completing a large addition at 3524 42nd Avenue is exactly like the Phillips School .

Analysis Councilmember Cano Convenes Discussion between Residents, Business Owners, Law & Order

BY HARVEY WINJE

“In the criminal justice system, the people are represented by two separate yet equally important groups - the police who investigate crime and the district attorney who prosecutes...” – Law and Order

Monday night Oct. 26, a State Representative, Mayor’s Staffperson, City Council member and Staff, Crime Prevention

Specialists, HN Cty. Chief Public Defender, Hn Cty. Prosecutor, City Attorney, Police leadership, and others met with residents and business owners at Circulo De Amigos Child Care 2830 Cedar Ave. for fears and frustrations to be told and acted upon.

9th Ward Council member, Alondra Cano, assembled appropriate city, county and state officials to answer specific com-

- plaints such as:
- Calling 911 doesn’t work.
 - Local impact of global affairs
 - Rampant drug & sex trafficking.
 - Local impact of Federal legislation and executive orders
 - Long-time neighbors moving away.
 - Lack of security for all ages.
 - Threats of violence.
 - Impact of vandalism and theft.

Complaints were explained, thanks for improvements given, and substantial explanations given about:

- City budget limitations,
- Police frustrations when expected to solve problems beyond their purview,
- specialty courts to address causal reasons of crime,
- Fed. legislative and executive actions impact locally,
- unified action with short and long term goals working best.

The meeting ended with acknowledgement that there is no immediate gratification, concerns noted, and a general sense of “we’re in this together” prevailing.

CM Cano ended the meeting by leading a unison shout from those gathered, “Community!” She will reconvene another meeting in 3 months to review progress.

Trash is “tip of ice berg” Phillips’ Clean Sweep: Huge Success!

BY HARVEY WINJE, ASSISTANCE BY JANA METGE & MICHELE HOWARD

Trash collected (pg 4) is this event’s “tip of the iceberg.” Volunteer hours, community-building, and general, public good by hundreds of people and dozens of organizations and businesses working cohesively is the much larger part “below water.”

a CHAT of the Backyard Initiative

Who is the 'Circle of Healing'?

The Circle of Healing Practitioners Community Cultural Health Action Team (CHAT) is a collaborative of Backyard Initiative practitioners including but not limited to complementary healers and elders who are representative of different cultural traditions, conventional health professionals and community care givers. Members of this CHAT come together as practitioners interested in creating a more formalized network of people (Circle of Healing) around Backyard residents to provide better information and support for healing and reflection about the message 'dis-ease'. This network serves both the community receiving care and the healing practitioner community in the area of the Backyard Initiative.

The Vision

The vision behind the Circle of Healing Practitioners CHAT is grounded in cultural health practices and ways of knowing that honor the reciprocal and holistic nature of healing. In order to meet the health needs of the people living in the Backyard area, this CHAT aims to empower health practitioners and community members and to connect the community care giving system to the conventional health care system in a more formal and integrative way. The CHAT aims to bring awareness to Circle of Healing, Map to Wellness Sessions, and the community care giving system that currently operate and are available in the area of the Backyard Initiative.

What is Cultural Self-Study?

Cultural self-study is the process of studying one's thoughts attitudes and behaviors through the purview of culture. Self-study is about learning from inside about self-knowledge, self-thoughts, self-concept, self-worth and self-value. ~ Elder Atum Azzahir

"My self-study journey has helped to revive the 'pure' me and reclaim purpose, through self-examination, I stirred up the dormant potential and abilities on the inside of me, ignited and was tapped into a reserved power and strength that I thought I no longer possessed, because of the victim mentality that had rooted itself in my mind, heart, and spirit due to daunting life circumstances. I constantly felt sick and defeated, my hope was non-existent. The 'spark' was truly ignited, I am enjoying the best health I have experienced in a long time, I have so much impending success, hidden talents, uncapped capabilities yet to be realized, and unencumbered sight, hindsight, insight, and foresight. I am not a victim but a victor. I don't wait for things to happen, I make things happen." ~ Cultural Wellness Center Member

Harvesting the Balance of the Autumn Equinox

As we reach this season, we have to take time to see what has come into maturity. As we look at ourselves in the mirror we can be honest about the lessons we are harvesting from the growing seasons of spring and summer. Autumn is a time for us to begin to find our balance again. As the planet begins its tilt away from the sun we must begin to ask ourselves; what are we titling towards or away from in our daily lives. As we study the balance of this season we study the balance within ourselves.

The days and nights are coming into balance with each other. As you look into the evening sky during this season notice how the moon and the sun are sharing space together. This is a powerful message for each of us as we prepare ourselves for the dark time associated with the birth of winter's coming sun. As we take in the lessons from this time of year remember what you planted in the spring and remember what it took to nurture it through the summer. Consider the gift of being balanced and ask yourself; what is this season of my life preparing me for?

Answer the previous question with an honest heart. When you see the response you have offered to yourself give yourself permission to harvest the lesson for the time ahead of you. Remember the reward of having days balanced by light and dark. Learn with your heart to explore the known and unknown as you harvest the lessons from this season. This is a time of year when we must be attentive in understanding how we are impacted by activity and inactivity.

Wellness Self-Study Question: What areas of balance do you need to appreciate and be thankful that they are evident in your life?

Rose Gbdamassi, Circle of Healing CHAT member hosts the BYI October All CHAT Meeting featuring Aiko Steans and Dr. Breslows who presented on Korean Ginseng

5,000 Year Old 'King of Herbs'-KOREAN GINSENG

Korean Ginseng has been in use for over 5,000 years and is called the 'King Of Herbs' due to its energizing and revitalizing effects on the human body. Traditionally, Korean Ginseng had been used as a restorative tonic to increase stamina, restore energy, and relax the body after a long day's work. Today Korean Ginseng is widely used all over the world to improve overall energy and vitality, particularly during times of fatigue and stress. Korean Ginseng is one of the best adaptogen in improving the body's overall ability to adapt to and cope with the negative effects of physical and environmental stress.

Korean Ginseng is usually grown for 5 to 6 years before being harvested. The roots are usually cooked, preserved with honey, or steamed and extracted into a liquid form. Most Korean Ginseng in the west are consumed either in liquid or capsule form.

Clinical studies have shown that, ginsenosides (comes from the roots, leaves/stems, fruits, and/or flower heads of ginseng), saponins (occur in many plant foods and get their name from their soap-like qualities, due to the cleansing abilities) found in Korean Ginseng roots can help enhance endurance, reduce fatigue, and improve coordination and reaction time. There is also evidence that Korean Ginseng can boost immune function, helping the body fight off infection during times of stress. In laboratory studies, Ginseng has shown potential in protecting liver and heart health, regulating the function of reproductive hormones, normalizing cholesterol and blood sugar levels, and improving memory and learning.
