PHILLIPS WELCOMES PUPPETRY FESTIVAL

10 Troupes, 55 Artists/Actors, 13 Performances, 12 workshops at 5 Phillips locations

Welcome Puppets, Puppeteers, and Visitors

The Phillips Community is exceptional in a myriad of ways. One amazing attribute is its artistic activism every month; but September 25-28, 2014 art and activism in Phillips catapults even higher with "Handmade Worlds A Festival of Puppet Theatre." Performance descriptions below, Schedule on page 6 and at www.handmadeworlds.org. Tickets www.brownpapertickets.com/event/734750

Collaborating with the Great Plains Region of The Puppeteers of America and In the Heart of the Beast Puppet and Mask Theatre

Open Eye Figure Theatre (OEFT) is producing a national puppetry festival working with the Great Plains Region of The Puppeteers of America (POA), In the Heart of the Beast Puppet and Mask Theatre (HOBT) and the American Swedish Institute. This dynamic four day festival will offer a line-up of puppetry from around the country. Open Eye will be the venue for the larger number of smaller works, and HOBT will provide the venue for the festival's larger productions. POA members will travel from around the country to attend along with Minneapolis' thriving puppetry audience – putting our local puppet scene on the national map.

The Festival has been scheduled enabling Festival Pass Holders may see every one of the 13 performances, attend 2-4 of the 12 workshops, a panel discussion featuring nationally recognized artists, two puppetry cabarets and enjoy all the events of the festival. Performances will happen at four venues - OEFT, the Open Eye Studio (for some of the more intimate offerings), HOBT, and the final performance at the American Swedish Institute. The festival will culminate in a one-time opportunity to see Open Eye's My Life as A Fairytale at the American Swedish Institute on Sunday morning.

The Handmade Worlds Festival will feature prominent works by artists such as Julian Crouch and David Commander

(New York), Manuel Cinema and Michael Montenegro (Chicago), Masque Theatre (Connecticut), Paul Mesner (Missouri), Toy Box and Cripps Puppets (North Carolina), Monica Leo (Iowa), and several Minneapolis artists.

The four-day Handmade Worlds Festival features:

September 25

"On-time Circus" created and performed by Margo McCreary

(Minneapolis) open the festival on the Midtown Greenway. The On-Time Circus is up-tothe-minute fun for family audiences! Puppets, clowning and live music, and songs make this show a must see. Come experience the tradition of traveling performers who set up in your town to put on a show.

"Love is..." created and performed by Larry Hunt (Connecticut), ill open the festival at Produced by Open Eye Figure Theatre HOBT. Mr. Hunt has produced and performed original theater works under the auspices of MASQUE, an international touring company that he founded in 1980. His distinctive version of mask performance combines historical traditions with performance approaches influenced by ZeAmi to Peter Brook.

"Strumply Peter", a signature work by Michael Sommers (Minneapolis), of OEFT, will open the festival at the OEFT venue. First produced in early 2014, this show played to sold out audiences and now returns for a limited run to be featured in the festival. "What is special about Strumply Peter is its almost infectious joy, which spreads from the quartet of players and into the music of the three-piece orchestra." (City Pages)

September 26

On Friday, the Handmade Worlds Festival will offer a variety of workshops all day long covering diverse topics in puppetry such as joinery, design for puppets, creating a character, vacuum forming, cinematic shadow puppetry, movement for the mask, monster puppets, and needle felting and more.

Performances begin at 5pm

"The Mysterious Metamorphosis of Mr. Krank" created by an up-and-coming company, Toybox Theatre and Cripps Puppets (North Carolina), follows the story of Mr. Krank on a bizarre journey where he is subjected to many fantastical transformations. At HOBT.

"The Full Moon Puppet Show", the first of two cabarets is curated by Liz Schachterle (Minneapolis) and highlights the local underground puppet scene. This "Best of" cabaret will draw from over 5 years of Full Moon shows. Don't miss this opportunity! At OEFT.

"Oakwood Apartments" will be in the Open Eye Studio and is created by David Commander (New York), a member of Big Art Group, in NYC. This installation/performance incorporates a miniature set, live camera feed, TV monitors, and action figure tenants seen in their various apartments as they talk about the life they have built at Oakwood and their disappointment of an unfulfilled future that was promised to them.

September 27

Saturday all the stops are pulled out for a marathon of performances. At 11am there will be an artist discussion with Paul Messner, Julia Miller, Julian Crouch, Monica Leo, Michael Sommers, and Sandy Spieler. The panel will be onstage at Open Eye and is free to the public.

"Skeletons in the Closet" created and performed by Julie and Gustavo Boada (Minneapolis), will be presented at HOBT. This bilingual (Spanish/English) show for children is a colorful and touching story that teaches children about the meaning behind the Day of the Dead.

"Pulcinella" created and performed by Paul Mesner in the Italian Puppet tradition. Expect the usual badly behaved Pulcinella as he makes his way through life using a big stick. Mesner Puppets is a globally known professional puppet theatre company based in Kansas City, Missouri with a satellite location in Overland Park, Kansas. In addition to its local season of plays which draws about 20,000 annually, the company tours nationally and performs regionally to an additional 38,000 children and adults at performing arts centers, schools and libraries. At OEFT.

"Finding Home" by Monica Leo (Iowa), is a trilogy of pieces, poignant, joyful, and humorous, in a biographical telling of the artist's parent's immigration experiences. This Toy Theatre piece will play in the intimate Open Eye studio. Leo is the founder of The Eulenspiegel Puppets, formed in 1974. Based at Owl Glass Puppetry Center in West Liberty, Iowa, the Eulenspiegel has toured nationally and internationally.

"Ada | Ava" by Manuel Cinema (Chicago) will be at HOBT doing some of the most ambitious and innovative cinematic live animation work in shadow puppetry. "Ada | Ava" is the story is of septuagenarian Ada, bereaved of her twin sister. She solitarily marks time in the patterns of a life built for two, when a traveling carnival with a mirror maze plunges her into a journey across the thresholds of life and death.

The festival looks to the future with two prominent national theatre artists share their newest works still in development in a double bill at OEFT:

"Birdheart" by Julian Crouch (New York) brings his latest original work in development, which he is performing with his collaborator Saskia Lane. "Birdheart" is described as the story of our relationship to ourselves, and the world around us. It is utilizing a style of puppetry that Mr. Crouch calls "trash and object" theatre. An egg lies on the sand, and from the egg is born a large sheet of crumpled brown paper. The sheet of paper pulls elements up out of the sand, different hands, feet, heads. Sometimes the paper opens outwards and shadow images are projected in the heart of the paper figure. At OEFT.

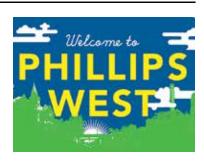

Crouch is a renowned Brooklyn-based independent director, designer, writer, maker and teacher whose career has spanned theatre, opera, ballet, film and television. Julian's opera work has included set design and associate direction for Satyagraha for the English National Opera and The Metropolitan Opera, New York, and creating The Enchanted Island, Doctor Atomic and staging the 125th Gala for the Met. His multi-award winning production with The Tiger Lilies, "Shockheaded Peter", was a sensation on both sides of the Atlantic, touring extensively. He designed the sets for the Broadway production of "Big Fish" and his design for "Hedwig and the Angry Inch" was nominated for a Tony Boulbus 1, Microcosm, and Giacco is created and performed by Michael Montenegro (Chicago), who has delighted Twin Cities' audiences and now returns to premiere his newest work as well as bring one of our all time favorites, Giacco. Three separate pieces, all of which are an attempt to speak in the language of visual poetry. Images that may have come from dreams, both provocative and surprising, appear and are accompanied by words equally adrift of context. The pieces express an underlying anxiety and subtle desperation experienced by most human beings in such a way as to elevate it while perhaps discovering in its ugliness a hidden and strange beauty. At OEFT.

Michael Montenegro has spent decades investigating and approaching the puppetry arts from all directions, filling objects and figures with humor and pathos bringing the inanimate to life. In this trilogy, the audience has an opportunity to further experience and witness the artistry of this Master of Puppetry in an evening featuring his finest solo work. From the sublime to the absurd each his work will delight - or astound.

"Rodeo Wing Ding" The festival will celebrate puppeteers of all kinds in our own Puppet Rodeo, a traditional late night puppet cabaret with an open stage where puppeteers of any ilk can sign up to perform a 5-minute piece. At OEFT.

"My Life as A Fairytale", appropriate for children and adults alike, will play at the American Swedish Institute. This unique production of an actor animating and transforming objects into characters relates the story of The Ugly Duckling. Created in early 2014 by Michael Sommers and Kimberly Richardson (Open Eye Figure Theatre) for the American Swedish Institute, this is a chance to see this production in the space it was created for with a remarkable performance by Kimberly Richardson as Hans Christian Andersen.

So you want to learn some Somali?

Abdikadir Hassan - 612.986.6819 for more information

Some of our friends and neighbors have asked who can teach those of us who are rather English-centric some Somali, Oromo, Spanish and other languages heard in our neck of the woods. Starting in mid-September, we have two very experienced Somali language instructors, Abdi Hassan and Ahmed Keynan who are ready to get you started. We have limited space and so each Free class will be limited to twelve participants for a weekly session of two hours. We anticipate starting the class on Tuesday, September 9th from 6:30 - 8:30 PM and will then continue for six weeks for the Basic training set.

SIGN UP AT OUR VENTURA VILLAGE TENT AT PEAVEY PARK!

Maybe cooking classes are more your taste?

Ventura Village will also be offering healthy cooking classes at the Phillips Community Center dining room starting in early October. These classes are also limited to 12 participants and will feature guest chefs who will introduce you to some dinner entrees that are diabetic and heart healthy, yet are very toothsome as well! These classes will be offered on weekends as well as on weeknights, depending on interest and availability of guest chefs.

SIGN UP AT OUR VENTURA VILLAGE TENT AT PEAVEY PARK!

Or interested in Photography or Kayaking?

Ventura Village will also be offering small beginners classes in Photography and Kayaking. You can sign up for both if each of these activities interest you. We are limited to only four persons for the Photo class and three for the Kayaking class, based on the current availability of equipment. Small classes can be really fun and you will be able to get lots of individual attention.

Bringing it all back home...

The number of shootings, taserings and fatal chokings of unarmed persons has garnered much attention in the past weeks. Local fears have been showing up on Facebook postings that have prompted my suggesting that Ventura Village host, along with other Phillips Community neighborhoods, a forum in which we can openly discuss race, police relations, and develop ways to ensure that such actions are never the headlines we will wake up to and regret.

Last month a meeting was scheduled to address some of the concerns voiced in the East African community related to an incident at the Village Market, seen differently by witnesses and the police. This prompted a request by a MPD officer to suggest a publicly-held conversation in which that incident can become a teachable moment in the East African community. Scheduled the same week as presidential visits to Minneapolis by African leaders prompted this forum to be rescheduled.

Then the shooting of Michael Brown started to capture the headlines. Former Daily Planet editor Mary Turck wrote on Facebook recently that she would like to see real faceto-face conversations on race take place. I replied in agreement and suggested that the conversations must not be hired experts talking down to participants but truly listening sessions where people can feel safe to share their thoughts and experiences without fear of judgement or political correctness.

September will see a dialogue between the Minneapolis Police Department and the East African Community in at least two meetings, the first scheduled for 2:00 PM on August 28th at the Hiawatha Towers. These sessions have helped participants get to know each other, developing a greater sense of trust. Now we must do the same with the youth and the police to ensure everybody's safety!

Cemetery markers are the "tip of the iceberg" and a book cover of family stories

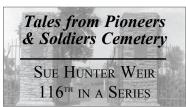

August 8th 2014 was a busy day in the Cemetery. Five new markers were placed that day.

Ron Thompson honored George E. Thompson II and August and Maria Seeber.

Ron Thompson of Naples, Florida, purchased three of them: One was for his grandfather, George E. Thompson II, and the other two were for his maternal grandparents, August Friederich Seeber and Maria Werner Seeber.

August and Maria Seeber arrived in Canada from Germany in 1869. Their daughter, Louise, who was born in Germany in 1866, came with them. The family settled in Northfield, Minnesota, where family lore has it that Louise witnessed members of Jesse James' gang racing through town on the day that they robbed the Northfield Bank.

Sometime between 1885 and 1892, Maria and August Seeber relocated to Spokane, Washington, where they ran an apple orchard. Maria died from gastroenteritis in Spokane on March 19, 1892, at the age of 55. Louise took the train from Minneapolis to Spokane to bring her mother's body back to Minneapolis for burial. August eventually moved back to Minneapolis where he died on March 26, 1906, from chronic nephritis, at the age of 74.

Louise had married George E. Thompson II, Ron Thompson's grandfather, in October 1885. George was born in West Union, Iowa, on December 25, 1859. He worked for the railroad for several years before moving to Minneapolis where he owned Duffy's Bar, a saloon located at the intersection of 26th Avenue and 26th Street. He died from pneumonia at the age of 46 on May 8, 1906. His wife, Louise, ran the hotel and saloon for a while but eventually lost it and moved in with one of their sons.

The three markers that Ron Thompson had placed in Minneapolis Pioneers and Soldiers Cemetery are not the only ones that he has had set for his family members. Not long ago he had five markers placed in Sunset Cemetery for other relatives. Among them is Louise Thompson, the wife of George Edward Thompson II; she died in 1933.

Hans Jeppesen Family honor him again 98 years later

Members of two other families had markers set on August 8th. Members of Hans Jeppesen's family were in town for a family reunion. A few months ago, members of Hans Jeppesen's family had taken up a collection and purchased a marker for him. His descendants came from as far away as Alaska, Utah and Illinois. Reverend Hans Jorgensen of St. Timothy's Lutheran Church in St. Paul led a dedication ceremony that was attended by about two dozen family members. Mr. Jeppesen died from heat exhaustion on July 8,1916, at the age of 41. In addition to his wife he was survived by nine children ranging in age from one to 15 years old.

Infant Ellen Moot honored gain 113 years later.

The other marker was for an infant. Ellen Moot. Ellen died on August 14, 1901, from tuberculosis. Look for her story in a future edition of The Alley.

COMING SOON! Alien Invasion – Cinema on the Cemetery returns on September 10, 2012, with a screening of the 1958 horror/sci-fi film "The Blob." Cemetery gates will open at 6 and the screening will begin at sundown, approximately 7 o'clock. Taco Taxi will be on hand with their usual delicious fare. Bring a blanket or lawn chair to sit on. Admission is $8 for one film or $20 for a package of three films. Kids under 12 admitted free. Aliens will take over the cemetery again on September 24th ("Plan 9 from Outer Space") and October 8th ("The Thing from Another World"). Exuberance & Excitement Exudes At Franklin Learning Center & Library

BY FRANKLIN LEARNING CENTER STAFF

Students come to the Franklin Learning Center to learn English, improve their reading and writing skills, prepare for the GED, or get ready for the U.S. citizenship test. Learners come from more than 20 different countries and range in age from early twenties to middle eighties. Some study for a long time, and some stay for only a short while. Yet while all students are different, they share a strong determination and commitment to life-long learning.

Originally from the city of Galkayo in the northern part of whenever he meets with a new word, he always looks up its definition and memorizes its meanings. On the whole, he definitely likes coming to the FLC. "I will never forget the staff, the volunteer tutors, and the students at the Franklin Library," he says.

In addition, Gaheyr has also done some personal writing in which he shared some information about his life outside of school. In his first story, he had written about his life in rural Somalia and his family's herds of camels, goats, and sheep. Gaheyr still has many good memories from that

Born and raised in Nebraska, Harry lived most of his life in Iowa, where he worked for 30 years as a newspaper photographer for the Des Moines Register. Soon after moving to Minnesota about four years ago, Harry signed up to volunteer as a tutor at the Franklin Learning Center. A very diligent and caring helper, Harry has contributed more than 350 hours of service. When tutoring, Harry especially enjoys seeing the light of understanding come on when concepts become clear to FLC students. He also appreciates getting challenging student questions which test his knowledge and teaching skills. Harry is also continually impressed with his students' desire to learn. The "students' hard work and dedication are inspiring, considering the many obstacles they face," he explains.

In his life outside of the learning center, Harry is also an avid bicyclist. You can see him on his bike even when it's very cold! It is not too surprising then that Harry reports loving the Twin Cities' bicycle culture, as well as the vibrant economy and ethnic diversity of the area. Harry and his family are also very frequent users of the local libraries. Whether he needs books for himself or for his grandchildren, Harry enjoys going to the Franklin, Southeast, and Minneapolis Central librar-

Somalia, Gaheyr Warsame came to study at the Franklin Learning Center in 2011, not long after he first arrived in Minnesota. For the last three years, Gaheyr has been studying very diligently and coming very regularly. He has already studied at FLC for more than 1500 hours! His hard work has led to good results. Gaheyr has finished the math books on fractions, decimals, percentages, and introductory algebra and geometry; now he is working on an algebra book with more advanced equations. He has also increased his vocabulary; time. In another story, he wrote about his "happiest day" when he was finally granted official refugee status. Most recently, Gaheyr shared his difficult but sometimes funny experiences with snow when he first moved from Kenya to Buffalo, New York.

Volunteers at the Franklin Learning Center work one-toone or in small groups with adult learners. Many of the tutors are eager college students and many more are community members who like to help. Volunteer Harry Baumert is in the latter group.

Letter to the Community

In the Heart of the Beast Puppet and Mask Theatre at Crossroads of Change

BY HOBT BOARD OF DIRECTORS

In the Heart of the Beast Puppet and Mask Theatre (HOBT), the funder and organizer of the annual MayDay Parade and Festival and one of Minneapolis' most beloved community assets, is embarking on a new path to reimagine its future with the aim of ensuring the organization's long-term viability and HOBT's vital mission – to bring people together for the common good through the power of puppet and mask performance - will remain at the core of its puppet center identity, along with its performance, education and communitybuilding work.

While HOBT continues to lay the foundation for its sustainability into the next decade, it is currently faced with inadequate cash flow to support the full range of programming it has offered in the post-recession economy. The reasons include the inability to replace overhead funding lost after the expiration of a multi-year operating support grant (and the increasingly limited availability of similar grants); and the unexpected need to fund a more than $20,000 refinancing of the Avalon Theatre mortgage as a result of a precipitous drop in the theatre's appraised value along with the subsequent reduction of a credit line used to moderate cyclical cash flows. As a consequence, HOBT ends its budget year with insufficient cash reserves to carry out a full artistic program.

Out of necessity and with careful deliberation, HOBT's Board has laid out a plan for the 2015 fiscal year (which commences September 1, 2014) that decreases staffing and

- The building will remain open for project work and rentals, and all existing contractual responsibilities will be fulfilled.
- Throughout the restructuring, HOBT is committed to meeting all financial obligations.

Staff and salaries will be reintegrated as sustainable cash flows

"The board and staff of HOBT are making the hard choices needed to continue the work on business and financial plans. We're eager to continue as a partner to sustain such a unique community asset," said Kate Barr, executive director of the Nonprofits Assistance Fund.

Moving forward, the HOBT Board will be reaching out to local experts to help assess current practices and policies, and explore new sustainable business models that will get the organization back on firm financial footing and pave the way for long-term success.

A key component of reimagining the theatre will be engaging the community, the support of which is needed now more than ever. HOBT will host a series of town hall meetings like those it hosts to plan and build the MayDay Parade, with the intention of helping revision HOBT's future.

Kirstin Wiegmann, president of the HOBT Board, said, "We believe a challenging time like this can actually serve as a catalyst to propel us to our next growth phase. With so much incredible creative talent and an engaged community surrounding HOBT, there is unlimited potential for continued service for another 40 years. As such, the Board is actively taking steps to be innovative and co-design – with our stakeholders – an organization that is vibrant, sustainable and deeply supportive of artists, staff and community."

Even while facing financial challenges, HOBT's work retains its relevancy and urgency. The societal concerns that are coming to the forefront now – social justice, clean water, climate change, sustainable agriculture – are the same issues that the nonprofit has been addressing for four decades.

In the Heart of the Beast continues to receive recognition to its community work. The McKnight Foundation recently honored Artistic Director Sandy Spieler as its 2014 Distinguished Artist, noting that "Within and beyond the walls of HOBT, Spieler's extensive artistic résumé includes everything from puppet shows performed in a suitcase to community collaborations, performance installations, public art commissions, and streetscape designs — all driven to engage and lift up the broader community."

Deeply rooted in its longtime home on East Lake Street, HOBT has weathered some of the most difficult years along the corridor, arm-in-arm with the residents and businesses of the Phillips and Powderhorn neighborhoods. The Board and Staff are committed to staying in the Avalon Theatre and supporting the health and wellbeing of these great Minneapolis neighborhoods.

As a puppet center, HOBT will continue to serve the vibrant Twin Cities puppet community and the community-at-large through beautiful, thrilling, joyful, educational and thoughtful community engage-

Over the last two years, the theatre has made significant programmatic shifts to embrace a new direction as puppet center, focusing energy on the critical educational and community engagement work of the theatre and beginning the process of determining how to best serve the vibrant Twin Cities puppet community and the community-

The 40-year old nonprofit has faced this kind of challenge before and each time has found the appropriate combination of good will, volunteer energy and financial support to emerge a better organization. HOBT's Board and Executive and Artistic Directors believe strongly that this austerity year will give the organization the time to revamp in order to remain one of the most highly regarded professional puppet and mask theatres in the country.

Gailileo's Compromise

August 2, Powderhorn Art Fair...

Before descending the slope from the corner of 35th Street and 15th Avenue, I was enticed to scan the annual Women's Prison Book Project yard sale of used books. A hardback copy of Galileo's Daughter caught the eye. It was an excellent purchase for the sum of $3.00.

It happened a few centuries ago that our Galileo made the irrefutable but annoying observation that Earth revolves around the sun. In order to please the Pope, he was compelled to present this finding not as fact, but rather as a dialogue between opposing hypotheses. Then despite his earnest effort, he subsequently found himself bowing before the Inquisitors-General while recanting his "heresy."

However, the point: By making this compromise, Galileo not only extended his own life but was able to preserve his work such that science was elevated forever.

More recently, our V.I. Lenin was to heap scorn upon those "Lefts" who disdain to compromise "on principle." To the contrary, with regard to our long-term vision of socialist transformations, we are advised to examine the current relationship of political forces. Take a soberminded look, please. It follows that a range of temporary and conditional "alliances" are called for.

Is it then tactically correct to blame President Obama for all our problems? Really? Is all the noise in any way edifying to those seeking a deeper understanding? What is to be gained from insulting the electorate, the very people who must someday make a revolution?

In a recent example, one of our "Lefts" characterized Obama as a "mass murderer," (probably) in relation to the Gaza crisis. Excuse me, I saw the president hang his head in remorse for the loss of life. In addition, the administration is pressing the "two-state solution" against Netanyahu's one-state genocide.

Frank Reflections "WE are ONE; but where's the grief?"

BY FRANK ERICKSON

There is a lot of pressure and expectations put on us when a police officer is killed in the line of duty...yet no pressure or expectations puton us when a civilian in Iraq, Gaza, Israel, or Afganistan is killed.

This is based on team membership and police officers are the most important members of "our" team; they are the glue that holds it all together, we better be grateful.

He police protect me from the very things that have made me, a white male, such a wealthy man—encroachment, theft, and murder. That which was done to

What would John McCain be doing? No difference!?

I suggest that self-promoting displays of "moral purity" be tempered in favor of the revolutionary process. Yes, our tactics must to some extent conform to the present "bourgeois-democracy." But in the end, a democratic worker's state is the only way out.

Lastly...

Given the infinity of time and space, we know with certainty that a "higher consciousness" has always existed (somewhere). We should be thankful for all the Galileos out there for rendering the universe, to some degree, self-aware.

Native Americans. These past crimes committed against Native Americans is what gives me everything I have, including the food I ned everyday to nourish myself. And now in the present, members of my team protect me from anyone encroaching upon, stealing from, or murdering me.

That young Iraqi girl who died during "shock and awe,"

I forgive her name, yet her unjust death was no more or less important than the unjust killing of a local police officer. But there was no parade here for her when she was killed, that would have been the responsibility of her team, on their turf–she was not a woman of our team, not our responsibility.

Through DNA, it has been proven that all of us come from one woman from Ethiopia, she is the original Mother of everyone, every human on the planet—there are no team.

All unjust killings are equally tragic, because everyone on the planet is a member of the same tem, same family, all life is of equal value.

It is wrong to pressure people into responding as if some unjust killings are worse than others based on a belief of team membership.

COMMENTARY Obama Can't Do it Alone: Your Vote is Important This November

BY DONNA PUSUSTA NESTE

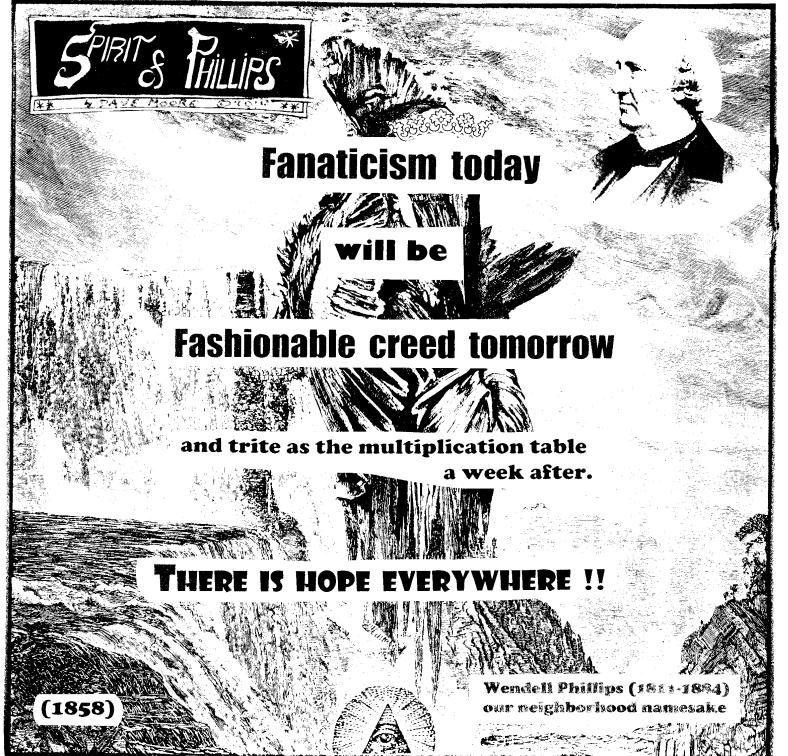

I remember the fall of 2008 when I got in the longest line to vote that I had ever seen in Phillips Neighborhood. Everyone was excited. We all knew that the whole country was sick of Bush and the Republicans. Obama won by a landslide and for the first two years of his presidency much was accomplished. However, the Republicans had taken back the House of Representatives in the following mid-term election and because of some very creative gerrymandering, they have owned it ever since. Since 2010 their strategy has been to block everything that benefits those who are struggling to get by, which is most of Phillips Neighborhood. President Obama and the Democrats have introduced bill after bill over the past six years that, if passed, would have put our nation squarely back on its feet again, but nothing moved in Washington because Congress refused to budge.

If you are eligible to vote, please do. This up-coming election is as important as any presidential election, especially for those who rely on food stamps, reduced or no-cost school lunches and summer lunch programs for your children, receive much needed help through the Women, Infants, and Children Program, and/or receive a big tax refund through the Low Income Tax Credit Program, all Federaly funded programs. The Low Income Tax Credit Program pulls more working poor Americans above the poverty line than any program Congress has ever put in place. However, that tax credit and all the above are at risk of being severally reduced or cut all-together, if the wrong people get voted into the House and Senate this election year.

Take, for instance, the recent Ryan Budget that was passed in the House. It was a bill that was dead in the water before it reached the Senate. There was no way the Democratic controlled Senate would have passed a bill that would increase military spending, provide large tax cuts to the richest Americans, and balance the budget. In order to pay for that balanced budget, (an action that seems to take on the importance of life or death for the Republicans whenever there's a Democrat in the White House), the largess for war and the top 1%, the Ryan Budget proposed deep cuts to the discretionary funds, that include all the above mentioned that benefit many in Phillips Neighborhood. (If the House can't be taken, the Senate at least needs to stay in the hands of the Democrats). The funds that help low-income people make up only one percent of the Federal Budget. To make cuts to those programs would be like cutting a child's allowance in order to help pay for the mortgage. So, Ryan went after Medicare, by proposing to make it into a voucher system (a system that killed the Federally funded Aid for Dependent Children Program, part of Clinton's "Welfare Reform" bill), Social Security, and Obamacare.

If you benefit from any of the above programs, make sure you get yourself to the voting booth this November and vote for the candidates that are more concerned about your well-being than giving billionaires more "tax relief."

Learning with the BYI TEENS Project

BY CARL LOBLEY, DENISSE SANCHEZ, BRAYSHEEN MARTIN AND ROSE LOBLEY

Hello, Back Yard Initiative Community! We are the TEENS Project. TEENS stands for "Teens Entering Existing Networking Systems". We are a peer-to-peer youth leadership and entrepreneurial skills development organization in cooperation with the Back Yard Initiative. We seek to unify, empower, and equip Teens with the knowledge and skills to create, maintain, and grow the essential networking skills to obtain work opportunities.

We've have had a wonderful summer full of memories, team-building, and personal growth as well as new experiences here at the Teens Project thanks to the continuous support and generosity of our partners at the Cultural Wellness Center (CWC) and Allina Health. We have been able to staff and manage an office space located inside the Midtown Global Market over these past several months which has enabled us to achieve great accomplishments in serving the needs of our community and its members.

Over the past month, Teens Project has been creating and running various programs at the Southside Village Boys & Girls Club. Tony Arnold, the Activities Director, has worked closely with us in developing a program called "how to study" which would provide the club members with all the necessary tools to complete their work for the upcoming school year. Ms. Stephanie, the Program Director, has also been involved in the fun! We recently hosted a back-toschool event where we handed out pizza & school supplies to kids of the neighborhood. In all, we had about 320 people including parents attend the event. We've also been assisting in bringing back a lost program called "Keystone" which would provoke more teens to come and join the Boys & Girls Club. In the upcoming month, we plan to create a work-readiness training program that will provide the teen with an updated resume upon completion. This is essential in gaining work opportunities as young adults.

We also held a National Night Out event on August 5, in connection with CWC staff member, Rose Lobley, who hosted and directed the event. We had about 75 community members in attendance enjoying hot dogs, hamburgers, chips, and beverages. Some of the neighbors brought their own dishes of food, too. There were games and tournaments for the youth and we were even able to recruit youth to TEENS Project. In all, it was a total success.

For more info, visit the Back Yard Initiative Resource Center in the Midtown Global Market or call Carl or Rose Lobley at the BYI Resource Center, 612-353-6211.

Speak Your Truth at Amen Corner

Sponsored by the Communities of Light Co-operative in affiliation with the BYI Rebirthing Community CHAT

The Amen Corner concept and practice has a long history in American lore. It was made famous by James Baldwin in his play, "The Amen Corner", as an arena where an African A merican in Minister used her speaking skills to explore truth and to obtain the support of parishioners. Supporters of her point of view were put in a special section of the congregation, the amen corner, where the people would indicate agreement by shouting in unison, "Amen", or let it be.

Even before Baldwin's play, the Amen Corner concept had entered into the American mainstream consciousness together with expressions like "preaching to the choir". The idea of a "soap box" extends this idea to a single individual standing on a "soap box" to make his ideas known, and has a long history in street culture, labor struggles, and public squares. The concept can also be seen in the "open mics" that have sprung up across the country via hip hop and slam poetry.

We invite you to come to speak your truth about yourself, your struggles, your stories, your ideas, your family, your community and your world.

This project has been created, organized and endorsed by the Communities of Light Co-operative. We do this because we believe listening with our hearts and learning with our minds can ensure we set better priorities and make better decisions. This caring will insure that more people be inspired to join our neighborhood organizations in Minneapolis.

We are also doing this because we want more people like you to participate in our Solar Lantern and Solar Energy Workshops held on Fridays. Here, our emphasis is on promoting self-sufficiency and solvency among our community members.

Your involvement is essential in sharing ideas about how we can all participate in the economic and spiritual life in our communities. We are dedicated to the proposition that all voices will be heard in all segments of our community.

Mostly, we urge you to speak out the truth and you may just get an "amen."

The BYI Back Page is produced each month as a collaborative venture between the BYI Communications CHAT & Alley Communications, Inc., publisher of The Alley Newspaper. The Communications CHAT works with BYI CHAT (Community Health Action Teams) each month as a "resource CHAT" – helping to get the news and activities of the BYI out to the broader community.

The Backyard Initiative (BYI) is a partnership between the Community, Allina Health Systems and the Cultural Wellness Center. The goal of this partnership is to improve the health of the 45,000 residents living in the "backyard" comprised by the neighborhoods of Powderhorn Park, East Phillips, Midtown Phillips, West Phillips, Ventura Village, Central, and Corcoran. There are eleven Community Health Action Teams (CHATs) focused on improving the health through a variety of cultural and community-connecting activities.
