

THIS MONTH IN EAST & MIDTOWN PHILLIPS

We are outraged by the murder of Renee Nicole Good and the ongoing trauma caused by ICE. We will continue to remain committed to supporting all of our Phillips residents, which includes our immigrant and BIPOC neighbors.

Feel free to reach out to us if you have any questions or need resources related to immigration. Our website is often updated with local resources as well. Please continue to take care of yourself, loved-ones, and neighbors.

Midtown's Annual Meeting

Join us virtually on February 7th, to reflect on the previous year of the Midtown Phillips Neighborhood Organization, vote for new board members, discuss ways to support Midtown residents, and more! There will be Somali and Spanish translations available. For more information or to register, please visit <https://shorturl.at/mKbuR> or scan the QR code below.

Food Sovereignty

The Community Seed and Food Sovereignty Resource Library is open at Pow Wow Grounds - 1414 E Franklin Ave, Minneapolis, MN 55404. We have a variety of market garden seeds, as well as a selection of heirloom varieties, medicinal herbs, and small selection of native prairie plants and perennials. You can also find zines and booklets of food resources in the Phillips community, growing practices, and plant stories. Seeds go quick, so we are working to stock new varieties as seeds are taken. We welcome any donations of saved seed and have a small donation box next to the seed library organizer.
